Under our Mun Bi Banchibaku Chaen campaign,
Berhampur Sabuja Bahini has successfully saved more than 100 trees from being cut or damaged.

One of our most significant achievements was rescuing and protecting a nearly 50-year-old banyan tree at First Gate. This conservation effort was made possible with the valuable support of the Berhampur Municipal Corporation and the Truck Union Sangha.

Our dedicated volunteers worked tirelessly to ensure the tree was preserved and given a new lease on life. Together, we continue to prove that united community action can safeguard our green heritage for generations to come.

Collect Seeds

“Seed for Forest” Campaign: Berhampur Sabuja Bahini collected a variety of native tree seeds like palm, mango, jackfruit, jamon and many more from homes, schools, NGOs, and local communities to promote ecological restoration. Our dedicated volunteers sowed these seeds across barren hills, transforming unused land into future forests and strengthening biodiversity through community participation.

During the scorching summer, Berhampur Sabuja Bahini members regularly watered not only newly planted trees but also ensured their survival through dedicated care.

The team placed water bowls at different locations to provide drinking water for birds, helping them stay safe during the extreme heat.

This compassionate initiative reflected our commitment to protecting every form of life, proving that caring for nature means caring for trees, birds, and animals alike.

Water was also provided to stray animals, including dogs and cattle, ensuring they had access to clean drinking water throughout the summer.
